The college admissions process is undergoing significant changes at many schools. The current test optional policy that most colleges have adopted and the greater virtual outreach have created this situation and many colleges have announced that they will continue to be test-optional for next year and possibly beyond.

We will discuss the holistic admissions review process and focus on the greater consideration admissions officers are giving to extracurricular activities and essays as they will have fewer data points to rely on due to the disruptions from COVID-19.

This program covers how admissions officers are handling the current situation and how students can position themselves to develop a compelling narrative to increase their chances for admission.

There will be an open discussion for all counselors to ask questions.
